

CENTER OF ANTIQUITY

In 17 BC, the Roman Emperor Augustus founded the city „Augusta Treverorum“ on the banks of the Moselle River. This makes Trier the oldest city in Germany. In the period of Late Antiquity, the town saw a glamorous rise, becoming “Roma Secunda” – the second Rome. Emperor Constantine, who ascended the throne in 306 and went down in world history as the first Christian Emperor, resided in Trier. In the 4th century AD, Trier was one of the five biggest cities in the known world with a population of about 70,000.

Visiting the city, you will find that history is present everywhere in Trier. No other place in Germany makes Roman times come to life with such authenticity. The Porta Nigra, the amphitheater, the Imperial and the Barbara Thermal Baths have been UNESCO world heritage sites since 1986. Displaying a series of world-famous Roman treasures, the Rhineland State Museum Trier is one of the most important archaeological museums in Germany.

TREASURES OF ANTIQUITY

RHINELAND STATE MUSEUM TRIER

Free entry for holders of the AntiquitiesCard

The Rhineland State Museum Trier is one of Germany's most important archaeological museums. It highlights the city's heyday era of power and glory – the times when Trier was the administrative metropolis of the Roman province Gallia Belgica and rose to become an Imperial Residence of the late Roman Empire. Spectacular mosaic floors, formidable sepulchral monuments and many other treasures bear witness to the glamour of the former Imperial city. Also on display in the museum: the archaeological find of the region – from pre-historical times to the late Middle Ages.

OPENING TIMES

Tuesday – Sunday: 10–17
For guided groups: Tuesday – Friday, from 9.30 (by appointment only).
Last entry: 16.30.

IN THE REALM OF SHADOWS

Discount admission for holders of the AntiquitiesCards Basic and Premium

The State Museum opens up a new dimension of living history with floor-to-ceiling surround vision projections on larger-than-life funerary monuments. The show takes the audience on a 45-minute adventure in Roman Trier. Mercure, the God, is travelling to the netherworld with grieving Albinus Asper, who is looking for his deceased wife. Accompanied by the scheming god, Asper meets some of the characters of Roman Trier: vain matrons, enterprising wine merchants, ambitious hunters, cheeky students and reckless charioteers. They live as shadows in their own realm, awaiting the resolutions of the gods. Meanwhile, Mercure has his own agenda: He wants Asper to forget his wife. The voices of Christoph Maria Herbst and Peter Striebeck give the central characters of Mercure and Albinus Asper personality and charm.

Daily performances: 11.30 and 14.30 (except Mondays)
Additional performances for groups and school classes:
Tuesdays – Fridays at 8.45 and 17.00, Saturdays and Sundays at 17.00

The spatial theatre is also available in English, French and Dutch language (max. 48 people per show)

Discount tickets for holders of the AntiquitiesCard available at the State Museum box office: 6.50 € p./p. (including four children 18 years of age or younger)
Suitable for 6 years and over according to German law (§ 14 JuSchuG FSK)
